

national collaborative for infants & toddlers

Background

The National Collaborative for Infants and Toddlers (NCIT) conducted a survey of PN-3 organizations working across the country to develop a big picture overview of the PN-3 policy work in 2023 and beyond. By identifying what is planned across issue areas, jurisdictions, organizations, and geographies, the NCIT hopes to foster a more coordinated and cohesive environment to support PN-3 policy change.

Using the campaign inventory data to fuel your Prenatal-to-3 advocacy!

Coalitions and Advocates can:

- Identify other places with similar priorities and reach out to compare campaign strategies.
- Show lawmakers that PN-3 policies are popular and enjoying strong support across the country.
- Share data with local funders to encourage them to invest because (A) momentum in the PN-3 space is strong, or (B) their state/ community is falling behind in key policy areas.
- Activate parent engagement organizations to center parents' voices in the campaign process.

Governments and lawmakers can:

- Discover where the PN-3 advocacy community is focusing its energy and choose to join forces with those campaigns already underway.
- Identify peer agencies at the federal, tribal, state, and local level for collaboration around policy implementation, data needs, and reporting.
- Use the data to assure colleagues that they are not alone in pursuing this action and to play off the spirit of competition between states/ communities.

Funders can:

- Inform decisions about resource allocations for campaign support, message development, convenings, and grant-making.

The media can:

- Provide points of comparison and context when covering policy campaigns and key PN-3 challenges by showing how seriously these issues are being taken across the country.

Researchers can:

- Identify trends, prioritize research questions, time data releases, and find opportunities for implementation and evaluation over time.
